JAMES ORENSTEIN, Magistrate Judge:

ORDER

09-CV-4084 (ENV) (JO)

At the initial conference on August 12, 2010, and with the parties' consent, I ordered that in lieu of formal discovery procedures, pro se plaintiff Sonia Pusey ("Pusey") could provide information about her claim by submitting a narrative statement of the specific facts she expects to prove at trial, together with a witness list and copies of any documents to be offered as evidence. Docket Entry 18. Since then, Pusey has requested, and I have granted, several extensions of the deadline to produce such information. See Orders dated September 7, September 16, October 6, October 15, October 27, November 19, and December 7, 2010. In granting Pusey's latest such request over the defendants' objection, I ordered Pusey to make her submission no later than January 3, 2011, and cautioned her that I would grant her no further extensions "absent a timely showing of the most compelling and unforeseeable of extraordinary circumstances." Pusey has failed to comply with that order. I therefore order the plaintiff to show cause in writing no later than February 3, 2011, why this case should not be dismissed for failure to prosecute. I direct the defendant to provide a copy of this order to the plaintiff forthwith.

SO ORDERED.

Dated: Brooklyn, New York
